

Reasons to Call the Pediatrician

Notice yellowing of the skin or eyes

Lack of wets or stools

- Expect one wet diaper for every 24 hours of age. 5-6 wets per day by day 5 of life.

Unable to wake baby for feedings/not staying awake to feed

Rectal temperature of greater than 100.4°F

- Normal range for underarm temperatures is 97.8°F – 99.0°F

Projectile vomiting repeatedly

Nasal flaring, retractions, blue/purple mouth/face

- Retractions - Baby's skin appears to suck in between ribs with breathing.

Parental concern

Reasons to Call the Pediatrician

Notice yellowing of the skin or eyes

Lack of wets or stools

- Expect one wet diaper for every 24 hours of age. 5-6 wets per day by day 5 of life.

Unable to wake baby for feedings/not staying awake to feed

Rectal temperature of greater than 100.4°F

- Normal range for underarm temperatures is 97.8°F – 99.0°F

Projectile vomiting repeatedly

Nasal flaring, retractions, blue/purple mouth/face

- Retractions - Baby's skin appears to suck in between ribs with breathing.

Parental concern